

SECTION I : PROSE

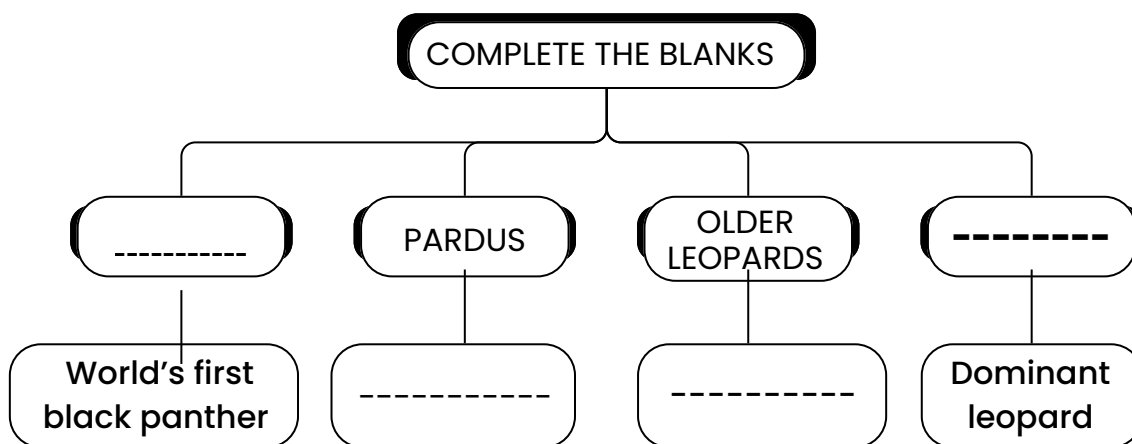

[Reading for Comprehension, Language Study, Summary, Mind Mapping]

Photographs of that leopard, the victor, Scarface, as Shaaz named him, not only made Shaaz famous among India's wildlife community, but also led to Shaaz's enviable reputation as a chronicler of the wild. "Through my journey of photographing Scarface, I have discovered other leopards, his mates and discovered his nemises- tigers. I also discovered the current protagonist of my work-Saya-while tracking Scarface. This is the world's first black panther, the behaviour of which is being documented so intimately on camera, by tracking its movements. So far all the research on the animal has been done through camera traps." Through many months of toil, Shaaz has managed to collect precious footage, including that of the animal mating, to piece together the incredible landscape of a black panther's life.

Saya, Scarface and Pardus, the leopard that lost to Scarface, have also led Shaaz down a different path of discovery. Learning about them and the loss to their habitat has led Shaaz to create the Buffer Conflict Resolution Trust of India (BCRTI). It's an agency that educates villagers who live on the fringe of the forest on the importance of conservation. "We are in the heart of the man-animal conflict zone," explains Shaaz. "There is no specific buffer zone here around Nagarhole. The core area of the forest ends where the fields begin. In dry season elephant and wild boar incursions into fields are very common. Older leopards, like Pardus, who have lost territory in the forest often carry away livestock from villages." This creates resentment among locals towards the animals on occasions leading to unpleasant situations.

When I had money, money, O!
I knew no joy till I went poor;
For many a false man as a friend
Came knocking all day at my door.

Then felt I like a child that holds
A trumpet that he must not blow
Because a man is dead; I dared
Not speak to let this false world know.

Much have I thought of life, and seen
How poor men's hearts are ever light;
And how their wives do hum like bees
About their work from morn till night.

So, when I hear these poor ones laugh,
And see the rich ones coldly frown
Poor men, think I, need not go up
So much as rich men should come down.

When I had money, money, O!
My many friends proved all untrue;
But now I have no money, O!
My friends are real, though very few.

Why do you weave a garment so bright?.....
Like the plumes of a peacock, purple and green,
We weave the marriage-veils of a queen.

What do you weave in the moonlight chill.....
White as a feather and white as a cloud,
We weave a dead man's funeral shroud

Poem / Poet:

Indian Weavers is written by Sarojini Naidu, known as the Nightingale of India. She was a poet and freedom fighter. In this poem, she describes Indian weavers weaving three types of clothes at three different times of the day – for a newborn in the morning, for a queen's wedding in the evening, and for a dead man at midnight.

Central Idea:

The poem shows how human life moves through three main stages – birth, youth, and death – each with its own emotions like joy, responsibility, and sorrow.

Style of the Poem:

The poem has three stanzas with a question-and-answer format. Each stanza has two rhyming couplets, and the poem is written in a simple and clear style with a conversational tone. It is a metaphor for the three stages of human life – birth, youth and death.

Poetic Devices:

The poet uses here the rhyming scheme a-a-b-b as well as simple poetic devices such as Simile, Metaphor, Alliteration, Repetition, Inversion, Tautology, Interrogation etc. The times of day reflect the stages of life.

Message / Opinion:

The poem gives the message that life is always moving forward through different stages. I like this short poem for its clear images and beautiful colour descriptions.

- 1) Meaning of the phrase.
- 2) Importance courtesy.
- 3) Give an examples .
- 4) Message

Ans: Expansion of the Idea: “Courtesy is the Key to Opening Doors to Hearts”

Courtesy means showing politeness, kindness, and respect towards others. The phrase “Courtesy is the key to opening doors to hearts” tells us that good manners help us win love, trust, and respect of people.

Courtesy is very important in our daily life because it creates a positive atmosphere and builds healthy relationships. let's see an example to prove it, Nitin and Naresh were neighbours. Nitin was rude and spoke harshly, so everyone kept distance from him. One day, Naresh spoke to Nitin politely and treated him with respect. Nitin felt ashamed of his behaviour and slowly changed himself. His rude nature turned kind, showing that courtesy can change hearts.

It gives us a clear message that courteous helps in reducing conflicts and spreading harmony in society and opens the hearts of people.
